Museum entrance

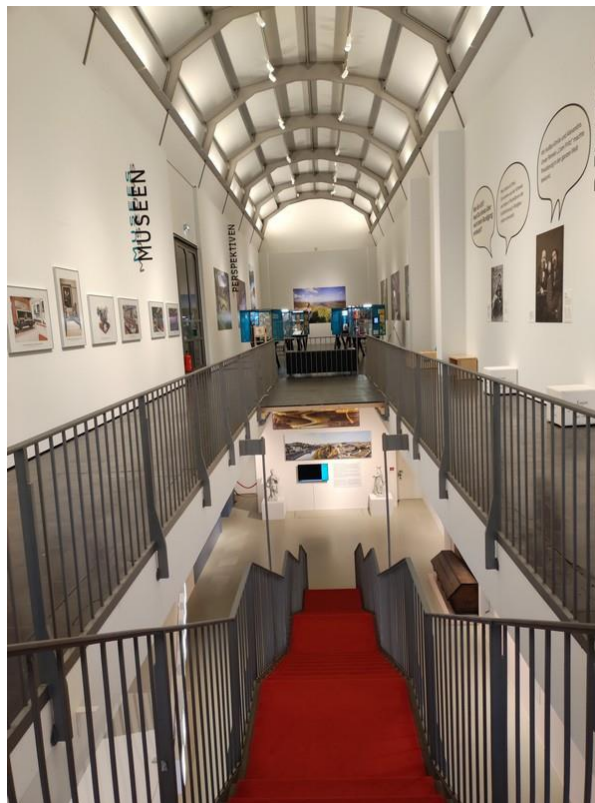

Historical Museum Saar is a museum that presents the regional history of Saarland. The museum was founded in 1986 under the name "Regional History Museum". In 1993, a new museum building was constructed by the architect Prof. Dr. Gottfried Böhm. And in 1994 the museum changed its name to "Historisches Museum Saar".

The museum offers changing exhibitions on many different topics. These are located in the entrance area of the museum, as can be seen in the photo.

But there are also permanent exhibitions showing life in the Middle Ages until the 1950s: the most important periods are the Middle Ages, the Empire (1870-1914), the First World War (1914-1918), the 1920s, the Second World War: Nazi period/ Gestapo cell (1935-1945) and finally the 1950s. In addition, the museum offers the possibility to visit the underground castle.

The underground castle with the original foundations 14 meters underground. It dates from the Middle Ages and the Renaissance.

The museum from the inside, with the special exhibition at the top of the stairs and the permanent exhibition at the bottom.
